Bank Survival Checklist

Mission: prove your address. A hand-tested guide for anyone who has ever walked into a bank and been sent to the wrong counter by someone smiling. Tick as you go. Nobody will stamp it.

BEFORE YOU LEAVE HOME

- [ ] Passport. Original.
  Not the copy. Not yet. You will meet the copy later.
- [ ] A photocopy of the passport.
  They will ask for it. They will also want the original of the photocopy.
- [ ] Proof of address, dated this month.
  Last month is a different month. The clerk checked.
- [ ] Proof that the proof is yours.
  A hotel is not an address. A hotel bill is a lovely piece of paper, though.
- [ ] Two pens.
  The pen at the desk is on a chain. The chain is not long enough.
- [ ] Your signature, practised.
  Sign it the same way every time. It will not matter, but be proud.

AT THE DOOR

- [ ] Leave the weapons at home.
  It is a bank, not a film. The pencil is also at home.
- [ ] Take a ticket. Straight away.
  Number 412. Now serving: 7.
- [ ] Find the chair that does not wobble.
  You will live there now.

AT THE COUNTER

- [ ] Counter one wants a photocopy.
  You have it.
- [ ] Counter two wants the original of the photocopy.
  You have that, too. It is at counter one.
- [ ] Smile. Do not mention the pencil.
  Nobody wants to hear about the pencil.

IF the clerk smiles and turns the monitor around, the system is down. Take a deep breath. Take another ticket. It is a very long day, but you are very organised.

AFTER YOU SURVIVE

- [ ] Frame the stamped form.
  It took everything. It should hang on a wall.
- [ ] Go home. Everything you needed was in the app.
  It was down.
