The Real-Life GTA Rulebook

Same city. Same chaos. Real-life rules. Read all sixteen before you press start. Fair warning: the paperwork is longer than the mission, and there is no skip button.

1. Stealing a car requires Form 27B.
   In triplicate. The getaway timer pauses while the photocopier warms up.
2. Respawning is not free.
   You wake up in hospital. The invoice wakes up before you do. Insurance does not cover stunt jumps.
3. Wheel clamps are not a glitch.
   Your supercar is exactly where you left it, plus one big yellow boot.
4. Changing clothes does not reset anything.
   New hat, new shirt, same face. The CCTV remembers your walk, your sandwich and your haircut.
5. Hiding in a bush works for zero seconds.
   The bush has already given a witness statement.
6. Police no longer lose you around the corner.
   They simply know your address. They also know your mother's.
7. Every mission marker leads to a waiting room.
   Take a number. The yellow diamond is just a seat with a better view.
8. The loading screen is a queue.
   It says "estimated wait: fourteen to nineteen business days". It is lying about the nineteen.

WANTED LEVEL, REAL-LIFE EDITION

★	★★	★★★	★★★★	★★★★★
Strongly worded letter	Court date, eight months out	Jury duty (unpaid)	Mandatory form-filling course	A normal job

Fine print A comedy sketch, not a legal guide. Please do not steal cars. Please do not steal bushes either.

Rules 9 to 16

The advanced rules. Pretty much all of them involve a clipboard.

9 Jury duty is a side mission.
It pays no cash and gives no XP. It unlocks a vending machine that is out of order.

10 The speed limit is real.
So is the speed camera. So is the photo of you looking surprised at 31 in a 30.

11 Pedestrians have lawyers.
The lawyer is the pedestrian's cousin. The cousin has a podcast.

12 Parking is a separate game.
It has forty-one rules, one space and a sign you cannot read from the inside of the car.

13 Cheat codes are called "a word with the manager".
It works only on Tuesdays. The manager is on lunch until Thursday.

14 Rampages require a permit.
Rampage permits require a rampage. The application form is down for maintenance.

15 You cannot just drive off the pier.
The pier has a height restriction, a toll booth and a gift shop.

16 The final mission is a normal job.
Forty hours a week. Pay is just enough to settle the tutorial.
